

Our eMarketing Platform helps convert online strategies to increased sales.

eMarketing

Since 1996, Convergence.net has been helping clients use the internet as a branding, marketing and sales medium. At the forefront of all our projects is an intuitive, engaging and interactive extension of your brand. From our first major project building 20th Century Fox's global intranet to recent projects with music superstar Jack Johnson and global powerhouse Samsung, Convergence.net has provided a wide range of effective business solutions for hundreds of clients.

Our modular eMarketing Platform is completely customizable for a wide range of web-based initiatives from building an online presence to managing marketing programs to providing fully integrated eCommerce functionality. Our team has experts in creative, flash design, and database integration to create a distinguished look for your web presence with applications that deliver results. Our eMarketing services also include email campaign management, search engine optimization (SEO), and online advertising placement. And talk to us about our new interactive kiosks which deliver your marketing message in a powerful combination of large format touchscreen displays, flash animation, and HD movies.

Put the eMarketing solutions from Convergence.net to work for your brands.
